1. Eight hundred troops were estimated to be in the Flak Kaserne, Leipzig (N 52/E 21)-Heiterblick, between 6 and 10 August 1950. They wore red-bordered black epaulets, some with tank insignia. It was believed that only one tank unit with medium and heavy tanks was stationed in the billeting area. The roof of the garage in the eastern section of the installation was being elevated 1½ to 2 meters and the damaged part of the building was being reconstructed.

7. Three JS tanks and six SP guns were seen in the area of the Heiterblick Kaserne on 12 August 1950. More tanks were stored in a garage. The roof of the northern section of the garage facing Highway No 87 was being raised 75 meters. A soccer game in the billeting area on 15 August 1950 was witnessed by about three companies which seemed to be most troops stationed in the barracks. Most of the soldiers were recruits. [REDACTED]

 [REDACTED] Comment. [REDACTED] the 64th Gds Hv Tank SP Regt of the 8th Gds Mecz Div.

The regiment had previously been assumed to be stationed in Leisnig. However, reports received in the summer of 1949 mentioned [REDACTED] SP guns which indicated that the regiment might be stationed in the Heiterblick Kaserne, Taucha. Information obtained in late July and early August 1950 bears out the possibility that the 64th Gds Hv Tank SP Regt may be stationed in Taucha.
